

GREAT IDEAS ALTER THE
POWER BALANCE IN RELATIONSHIPS.
THAT'S WHY GREAT IDEAS ARE INITIALLY RESISTED.

Profile story on Mr. Bariexca

Around 7:15 each morning a tall, brown haired, optimistic man walks happily into work, ready to start a new day. Each day he goes into work with the attitude of "I'm going to help someone today, whether they like it or not," he says.

Mr. Bariexca recommends

Among the Thugs

Bill Buford

Buford's descriptions of the battles among European soccer "hooligans" are vivid, especially the scene in which an Italian policeman loses an eye in a very unconventional manner.

A Clockwork Orange

Anthony Burgess

Contains one of my favorite quotes: "A man who cannot choose

Meet a Reading Role Model

Mr. Damian Bariexca

School psychologist

What are your favorite kinds of books to read?

Comics and humor, coming-of-age stories, literary fiction, realistic fiction, biographies, health and fitness, and science books. It's never too late to get into reading. The trick is to find something you're passionate about – anything – and read whatever you can get your hands on about the subject. Read books, magazines, blogs, websites – just read!

What's the last book you read?

Little Brother by Cory Doctorow. I recommend this book to readers who like conspiracy theories and Internet-based technologies. The main characters are high school students who use technological know-how to fight secret government agents in order to restore civil liberties that were restricted after a terrorist attack on San Francisco.

What are you reading right now?

Moby Dick by Herman Melville. Despite being an English major and an English teacher for many years, I never read this classic of American literature. I really had no reason to read it now other than I wanted to.
